countdown to a new politics

There will be a general election by June 2010 at the latest. That election will decide who runs the country – but will it decide HOW this country is run? Will it change how we all felt when we heard about duck houses, bathroom plugs and moats being cleaned at our expense?

The party in power might change but will our politics stay the same?

POWER2010 is a unique campaign that gives you the chance to have a say in how our democracy works for us all. Do you want cleaner funding? Fairer voting? More accountability? You decide.

Tell us your ideas for changing the way we run our country.
